

Bless this Mess

Media Kit

Hi there!

My name is Melissa. I'm a photographer, recipe developer, Urban homesteader, food blogger, momma and general lover of all things delicious.

My blog is an honest picture of a happy small town life. You'll find posts about raising backyard chickens, gardening, remodeling our house while living in the mess and lots and lots of family-friendly recipes, dessert included. Bless this Mess is young but growing like a weed. Don't let the numbers fool you, the quality of content and the loyalty of my readers are strengths that can't be ignored.

I adore dirt, colored carrots, living intentionally, cast iron cookware, knowing where my food comes from, cake stands, watching my kids gather eggs, anything green, painting walls (but not ceilings), learning new things, and partnering with companies who share my passions!
